Report: Social media full of LGBTQ harasssment

Companies safeguarding response to attacks, slurs

WASHINGTON – Social media plat- forms including Facebook and TikTok are failing to stop hate and threats against LGBTQ users, a report issued Wednesday from advocacy group GLAAD found.

Those are some of the internet’s most vulnerable users, with a majority of LGBTQ people saying they’ve faced menacing posts or comments when they’re scrolling through social media. But it’s unclear how social media plat- forms such as Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, Twitter and YouTube are han- dling those threats.

Instead of protecting users, GLAAD says in the report, the tech companies are safeguarding information about how they respond to those attacks, re- vealing few details about how often they take down posts or accounts that push hate speech or harass LGBTQ users.

“The reality is, there’s very little transparency and very little account- ability,” said Jenni Olson, GLAAD’s di- rector for social media safety and author of the report. “And people feel helpless.”

Los Angeles resident Peter Sapinsky, a gay musician who said he has faced harassment in the online gaming com- munity, shared screenshots with The Associated Press of dozens of messages he’s sent to YouTube about users and videos that use racist and homophobic slurs. YouTube has responded to only some of the messages, he said.

Sapinsky, 29, said some use YouTube to livestream themselves harassing people at Pride parades. They quickly delete those live videos once they’ve wrapped to evade being detected by YouTube for violating its policies against hate speech, he said. He listed a series of homophobic slurs he’s heard in videos posted by users who are still op- erating on the site.

“YouTube doesn’t do anything about it,” Sapinsky said. “For someone who says they don’t allow hate on the web- site, they sure do.”

Hateful or violent speech directed at members of the LGBTQ community is prohibited on the platform, YouTube spokesperson Jack Malon said.

“Over the last few years, we’ve made significant progress in our ability to quickly remove hateful and harassing content,” Malon said. “This work is on- going, and we appreciate the thoughtful feedback from GLAAD.”

A Twitter spokesperson said in a statement that the company was dis- cussing the report’s findings with GLAAD. A statement from TikTok did not directly address the report but said the company is working to create an “inclusive environment.”

GLAAD recommended platforms start releasing the training methods for content moderators as well as the number of accounts and posts the companies remove for violating rules designed to protect LGBTQ users.

All of the social media platforms have outlined policies that are de- signed to prevent LGBTQ users from being harassed, threatened or discrim- inated against by other users because of their identity.

Twitter and TikTok also have poli- cies against intentionally misgender- ing, using the wrong pronoun to de- scribe someone, for example, or dead- naming, which involves reviving a transgender person’s name from be- fore the person transitioned. Meta, which owns Facebook and Instagram, said it removes those posts on request.

Louisiana court halts ban on abortion

NEW ORLEANS – Louisiana au- thorities have once again been blocked from enforcing a near total ban on abortion, this time under a judge’s or- der released Tuesday by a state court in the capital.

Judge Donald Johnson’s order halts enforcement temporarily while law- yers for a Louisiana clinic and other supporters of abortion rights pursue a lawsuit challenging the legislation. Johnson set a hearing for Monday.

State Attorney General Jeff Landry criticized the ruling in a series of posts on Twitter.

“To have the judiciary create a legal circus is disappointing,” Landry wrote in one post.

“The rule of law must be followed, and I will not rest until it is. Unfortu- nately, we will have to wait a little bit longer for that to happen,” he added.

Kathaleen Pittman, director of the north Louisiana clinic that was the lead plaintiff in the lawsuit, expressed relief in a phone interview. Pittman said the Hope Medical Group for Women clinic in Shreveport is ready to resume counseling and abortions. Louisiana’s two other clinics are in the capital, Baton Rouge, and New Or- leans.

“We look forward to arguing for a preliminary injunction before Judge Johnson next Monday and, in the meantime, we take solace in the fact that crucial healthcare for women has been restored in the state of Louisi- ana,” Joanna Wright, an attorney for the clinic, said in an email.
